SCHMIDTY SPEAKS

A MINI-WORKBOOK

The 3 Types of Reflection

Look back with honesty, take stock of today, and choose your heading. From the keynote Charting the Course to Our Future.

PAST PRESENT FUTURE

FROM SCHMIDTY

You're never really done adjusting.

Sailing with my dad taught me that the wind shifts and the water changes. The best sailors aren't the ones who avoid rough seas. They're the ones who keep checking their position and correcting course.

That's what reflection is. Not dwelling, not daydreaming. It's the practice of looking back, looking around, and looking ahead so you can steer on purpose.

Grab a pen, find 20 quiet minutes, and be honest with yourself. Work through the past, present, and future, then turn what you learn into three action commitments. How you finish is who you are. Let's get to work.

Geoff "Schmidty" Schmidt

1. Find 20 quiet minutes

Phone down, pen in hand. Print it or fill it in on screen.

2. Be honest, not perfect

Short answers are fine. Truthful answers are what count.

3. Turn it into action

Finish with three commitments, a date, and a person to hold you to them.

01

REFLECTION ONE

The Past

Look back with honesty. The goal isn't to relive it; it's to learn from it. Own the wins and the misses, then pull out the lesson worth keeping.

"Smooth seas never made a skilled sailor."

1 What moment from the past year shaped you the most? What did it teach you?

2 Where did you fall short, and what would you do differently with what you know now?

3 What win are you most proud of, and what habit or person made it possible?

02

REFLECTION TWO

The Present

Take an honest reading of where you are today. Before you can set a course, you need to know your position: what you control, what's working, and what's pulling you off course.

"Vulnerability isn't weakness. It's the strongest thing you can do on purpose."

1 Where are you right now, at work and at home, compared with where you want to be?

2 What is within your control this week, and where are you spending energy on things that aren't?

3 Who and what is lifting you up right now? Who or what is pulling you off course?

03

REFLECTION THREE

The Future

Choose a heading. You don't need the whole map, just a clear direction and the next few moves. Whatever happened last time, this is a fresh start.

"The next shot is your best shot."

1 A year from now, what do you want to be true about your work, your relationships, and your health?

2 What is one thing you need to start, one thing to stop, and one thing to keep doing?

3 Who do you need to sit next to, learn from, or ask for help to get there?

ELEVATE TO ACTION

Three takeaways. Three commitments.

Look back over your answers. Write down the three ideas that hit hardest, then turn them into three specific actions with a date and a person who will hold you to it.

My three takeaways

1

2

3

Commitment 1

I WILL

BY WHEN

WHO WILL HOLD ME TO IT

Commitment 2

I WILL

BY WHEN

WHO WILL HOLD ME TO IT

Commitment 3

I WILL

BY WHEN

WHO WILL HOLD ME TO IT

How you finish is who you are.

Signed _____ Date _____

TAKE IT FURTHER

Bring Schmidty to your team, conference, or campus.

This workbook is a small taste of what happens in the room. Geoff “Schmidty” Schmidt brings 22 years of leadership and sales experience at Rocket Mortgage to the stage, with stories, humor, and real talk that help people navigate change and leave ready to act.

SIGNATURE KEYNOTE

Charting the Course to Our Future

Sailing stories, lessons with Little G, and the three types of reflection.

LIVE EXPERIENCE

Elevate

Live music and motivation, with a DJ on stage and stories that hit home.

WORKSHOP

Elevate to Action

Interactive sessions with a workbook, three takeaways, and three commitments.

schmidtyspeaks.com

Book a keynote, workshop, panel, or Elevate event at schmidtyspeaks.com/#book

schmidtyspeaks@gmail.com
248-330-3231
@schmidtyspeaks on Instagram and YouTube